FIVE GRADUATED FROM HOLY CROSS

Mgr. Falconio Presides, and Cardinal Gibbons Occupies a Box.

Mgr. Falconio, papal delegate, presided yesterday afternoon at the graduating exercises at Holy Cross Academy, which were held in the National Theaten Cardinal Gibbons and a number of distinguished Catholic clergymen occu-

Five young women received graduation medals. They were Miss Agnes Isabelle Downey, Miss Marie Anne Parks, and Miss Marie Rose McGee, of Washington; Miss Mary Hamilton, of Texas, and Miss Imogen Frank Karns, of New York.

Preceding the presentation of medals, program of music and essays was given by students of the school. One of the most important of these was a poem dictated to Mgr. Falconio, which was read by Miss Agnes Hamilton.
"The Message of the Rose" was recited by the five members of the graduating leass.

The address to the graduates was made by the Very Rev. Edward A. Pace, of the Catholic University. Dr. Pace laid great stress on the importance of education, but warned the young members of the school not to look down on those who have not been fortunate enough t receive an education. He said an essential mark of the educated woman is not an attempt to escape duty, but to fulfill it, both in private and public.

AVOID EATING TOO MUCH DURING HOT MONTHS

OF SUMMER A noted doctor said: "More bables drowned in milk than sailors in salt water." Babies are not the only ones who suffer from overfeeding. We all eat too much. Half the doctors could go out of business if men and women could learn to curb their appetites. This is specially true in warm weath-We do not need so much nor so by food when it is hot. The thing make the average family see it that way. Work, which is such a burden when the thermometer is on the rampage, could be much eased if only the famility would consent to lighter meals. Try going without lunch or make the midday meal scant. You will feel better and will not suffer half so much from the heat. Half the sunstokes occur when the victims have gone into the sun soon after eating or drinking heavily.

with the 23,006,000 tons produced in a year in this country some idea may be gained of how far the Chinese really are behind the present age in steel making, as in other things.

In this matter of making steel the Chinese have shown, more than in any other field perhaps, that antipathy to foreigners which has been fatal to Chinese development, for steel making requires methods distinctly foreign to China. Efforts of foreigners to get the government to allow them to develop the steel industry of the empire have been thwarted repeatedly, and today the curious spectacle is presented of the Chinese selling their best ore to the Japanese instead of making it into steel themselves.

Colony. LENOX, Mass., June 10.-Mrs. Charles Astor Bristed, of New York, now at her ountry place near Lake Mahkeenac, in Stockbridge, is to be the first promistockorige, is to be the first prominent society woman of the millionaire Berkshire colony to take up ballooning. Mrs. Bristed, who is a close friend of Mrs. Cortland Field Bishop, have become an enthusiast over the possibilities of ballooning as a sport, and as soon as society is really settled in the hills she will give a balloon party.

Mrs. Bristed will use the new balloon "Berkshire," which has just arrived in Pittseld. This balloon will carry six and Mrs. Bristed will invite four of her friends to make the flight with her early in July. This will be the first society ballooning event in America, as the guests of Mrs. Bristed will be women of the foremost social scale.

Only a short flight is planned, and the aeronauts will take automobiles back to Lenox in time for dinner. Mrs. Bishop, who has made several ascensions with Count de la Vaulx in Paris, will be one of Mrs. Bristed's guest ithe initial flight.

If the balloon sport becomes popular several men of the Berkshire colony will club together and buy a balloon for their personal use. ent society woman of the millionaire

A SMART TAILORED SUIT

By MAY MANTON. /

Tailored suits are peculiarly chie and smart this season and a great many of them are made from striped material arranged to give distinctive and novel effects. This one combines a short and jaunty jacket with a four gored skirt that is peculiarly adapted to materials of this special sort and is made of striped Panama cloth, with trimming of black satin. The sleeves are made in the pretty and comfortable threequarter length, but they could be long if better liked. The skirt is very simple, being cut in four gores while the stripes meet at the front and the sides and the back to give a chevron effect. The little coat is easily fitted yet is jaunty and smart in they ex-
